Emergency Medicine in the Tropics

1-11 May 2017 in Kigali, Rwanda

Join us for EMIT<sup>2</sup>, an incredible opportunity for EM and other acute-care trainees from overseas to learn from local and international faculty in a busy tropical emergency department in Kigali, Rwanda.

This packed two-week pre-conference course covers a diversity of topics relevant to anyone interested in global health and developing emergency care in resource-constrained settings.

Sessions incorporate a heavy focus on clinical exposure with lectures and workshops focused on trauma, critical care, paediatrics, disaster response, and lots of ultrasound. The course is based in the very busy Emergency Department at CHUK, Rwanda's tertiary referral hospital.

EMIT<sup>2</sup> includes a visit to a district hospital ED, attendance at the 2nd Rwanda Emergency Care Association conference on 12 May, plus time to explore the beautiful Land of 1000 Hills (and perhaps even see gorillas)!

Register now!

Attend both weeks for just US$ 750 or join us for one week for US$ 400.
Discount of US$ 50 for payments made in full before 1 March 2017.
